Nancy Wynne Tells of the Engagement of Miss Mary Ernestine Appleton to Lieutenant Hunter, U.S.N. Miss Mary Carter Makes Debut at Dance

THE party which the Carters gave at the Ritz-Carlton last night for their debutante daughter Mary was a beautiful affair. There were about 350 guests and Mary was the prettiest thing I've seen for a long time. She wore an exquisite frock of pale pink and silver brocade with an ornament of pearls on the side. Mary has pretty soft hair, a charming oval face and very fair complexion, so the pale shade of pink was particularly lovely.

Her sister, Miss Virginia Carter, wore a frock of gold net embroidered in gold. It was wonderfully smart the Seamen's Church Institute of the seamen's Church Institute for the seamen and the back of the dress had a cape arrangement which is a sort of first cousin to the popular bertha of lace so much used this year. It was also of gold. Mrs. Carter, who received with Mary, were a gown of dark blue velvet, which was built on exquisitely plain lines and had a train. Supper was served after midnight.

NOTHER debut was made in the ton Dunns gave a tea at their home, 401
South Twenty-second street, to introduce Norma Grey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Norman Grey, of this city. Norma is the youngest of the three Greys, and like her mother and sisters has an abundance of wonderful red gold hair.
She is a graduate of Miss Irwin's and Mrs. Dandal Mrs.

together, which always seems a delightful thing for two sisters to do, if they are near enough the age for being introduced. You know both the Hodge girls are very musical. They were Music Club, which was organized on the Main Line some five or more years

T SAW Marie Louise Adams the other day in the Bellevue-Stratford looking charming in a two-piece frock of royal blue velvet made with a drop skirt of black cloth and a short coat of black caracol. Her hat was a pic-turesque large model of blue velvet trimmed with an uncurled ostrich plume of a lighter shade of blue, and it was so placed as to fall over the brim on the right side of the hat. Marie Louise has large deep blue eyes, and her brown hatr is quite wavy.

The other two meetings will be held on December 23 and January 6. IT SEEMS to me I have been trotting around a great deal this week. One of the things I did was to motor out to Memorial Hall to see the beautiful window of stained glass which Mr. and Mrs. James Francis Sullivan bave had made in memory of their daughter, the late Mrs. Albert Hoffman, who was formerly Miss Leta Sullivan. The win-dow is to be given to a little Italian church in Strafford where Mrs. man taught a class of small children every Sunday afternoon,

It's to be held on the 14th and 15th of this month, and I believe "eyerything but the kitchen stave," if the proverbial stove itself is not there, too, will be for sale. Mrs. Francis I. du Pont is president of the chapter and some of the other women interested in the sale are Mrs. Joseph A. WELL, we'll finish up this week of gay doings with an interesting piece of news, and the interesting piece of news, and the interesting piece of news, and the interesting bit is Miss Mary Ernestine Appleton's engagement to Lieutenant Harold O. Driscoll Hunter, of the navy, a member of an old and well-known Southern family. The engagement is announced by Miss Appleton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Appleton, of Warrenton, Va.

Miss Appleton is the granddaughter of the late Major William E. Goodman and Mrs. Goodman, of Chestnut Hill, and spends much of her time in this city with her grandmother. She has been studying at the School of Design for a couple of years since her debut, which was made at a tea given by her grandmother two winters ago.

She is very pretty, has golden hair and blue eyes and is extremely popular in the younger set. She spends her grandmother two winters ago.

Lieutenant Hunter is the son of Mr. Lieutenant Hunter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wright Hunter, of Savannsh, and is a brother of Jack Hunter, who is spending the winter here this year and is a student at Penn.

Miss Appleton is a first cousin of Sue Goodman, who is a debutante this ceason and for whom her grandmother. Mrs. Goodman, gave a dinner last vening at the Ritz-Carlton and a theatre party afterward.

The party which the Carters gave the Ritz-Carlton last night for their debutante daughter Mary was, and is a brother debutante daughter who looked well in a tan felt hat. Miss Yarnall generally affects sport clothes, which are becoming to her. Another debutante whom I saw shopping at one of the booths was Helen the stream of the proposal and small field that to match.
